1.3.1 Institution integrates crosscutting issues relevant to Professional Ethics, Gender, Human Values, Environment and Sustainability into the Curriculum.

SSPM's V P College of Pharmacy, Madkhhol aims to prepare competent pharmacy professionals who can contribute to health and wellness of individuals to the society promoting strong moral and ethical values. The Institute has instigated promising events to crosscut issues relevant to professional ethics, gender, human values, environment, and sustainability by setting into practice several curricular and co- curricular activities.

Professional Ethics and Human Values:

A total of 22 courses comprises topics in accordance with professional ethics and 20 courses in the curriculum embrace topics which enlighten the students on human values.

The curriculum has Pharmaceutical Jurisprudence, Hospital Pharmacy and Clinical Pharmacy, Quality Assurance, Pharmacy Practice, Social and Preventive Pharmacy courses which bring awareness and dynamics in professional, ethical and social assurances in the profession

Courses on Drug regulatory affairs (M. Pharmacy) Pharmaceutical regulatory sciences (B. Pharmacy) and Pharmaceutical Jurisprudence (D.Pharmacy and B. Pharmacy) deals with professional ethics.

Socially relevant research projects and service-oriented activities have been a regular practice in the institution which leads to inculcation of professional ethics and human values.

The UG and PG programmes deals with Research methodology course.

D.Pharm students are engaged in project work, clerkship, internship as per curriculum and in public health care activities.

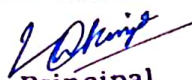

The Students-Teacher Interaction in B.Pharm and M.Pharm curriculum also helps in crosscutting issues related to ethics and human values to students.

Induction programme related to values and ethics is continuous practice in the institution for first year students.

The institute has been conducting World Pharmacist Day celebrations and National Pharmacy Week celebrations in order to nurture the human values and ethical insights into the students.

Students also participate in several health awareness programs, medical camps, blood donation programs, events in adopted villages etc. which integrates human values.

Gender:

A total of 20 courses in the syllabus relating to gender relevant topics give broad understanding to the students.

As a pharmacy institution, the programs offered in the institution don't have courses directly related to gender; however, the institution is dedicated towards conducting activities through which the faculty and students are given proper awareness and empowerment on gender related components.

Awareness through many activities is created among the students on women rights and safety by eminent personalities through guest lectures and seminars.

Environment and Sustainability:

Environmental science is a prescribed course offered in the curriculum.

NSS as well as green club organizes various environment related programs. The students are involved in various activities of environmental protection like swatch bhara, green campus initiatives and plantation drives.

Also, our institute maintains medicinal plant garden with rare plant species in the campus.

Greenery of the campus speaks of a balanced eco-system.

Impact:

1. Students are able to exhibit ethical behaviour on the professional front by avoiding mal practices, humanity in their social interactions.
2. Equal representation of both genders in student's activity council promoted gender equity among the students.
3. Gender friendly campus and outgoing students with high moral values.
4. Students are practicing in green initiatives through plantations drives and environmental protection.
